

RACER EVXX

We would like to introduce the new 2008 Tony Kart chassis.

The Racer EVX has been a remarkable chassis for 2007 and with this in mind there has been little change to the overall look of the chassis.

Our experiences on the track has helped in the development of the multi-titled Racer EVX in both the KF and KZ classes. Already crowned as European Champion and KF1 and KF2 2007 Open Masters Champion, winner of the 2007 KF1 World Cup and Champion of the KF2 Asia Pacific, the RACER EVX shows itself for the upcoming 2008 season with technical solutions specifically adapted in order to grant a bigger possibility of choice in the setting up of the front of the chassis.

The RACER EVXX, this will be the name of the new model, will be available from the middle of October and these are the innovations introduced:

- The caster angles of the chassis has been modified without changing the structure but just its geometry: this gives the chassis better directionality and efficiency when you enter a bend;
- The new eccentric washer allows you to make minute changes to the camber and caster angles and gives the driver a bigger range of changes.

These innovative components have been designed by the men of the Racing Team and tested, with great success, by our official drivers during the 2007 season.

Moreover Tony kart, who always put great care to the design of its products, dedicates a new floor plate sticker to the Racer EVXX, which shows the difference between this model and its lucky forerunner.

The same innovations and changes will be also present on the KRYPTON KRV, except for the floor plate sticker that will remain the same for the 2008 season. The name of this chassis will not change either.

We are accepting pre-release orders NOW for the EVXX. We will need a £200 deposit on any orders taken and delivery can not be guaranteed for a specific date as yet.
